Asking Nicely

Sometimes, I want something from a person.
I might want help.
I might want a toy or food.
I might want someone to push me in my toy car.
Sometimes, I want a person to stop doing something.
I might want someone to move out of my way.
I might want someone to stop singing.
I might want a person to stop touching me.
If I want a person to do something, I need to ask nicely.
Asking nicely means to use a big kid voice, polite words, and a nice tone of voice.
My family or teachers can show me what a big boy voice, polite words, and a nice tone of voice sound like.
Other people feel happy when you ask them nicely for things.
Let's practice asking nicely.
Pretend this is your grandfather. Pretend he is tapping your shoulder. How can you ask him to stop?
Pretend this is a teacher, and you need help. How can you ask her for help?
This is Kelly. Pretend she is sitting at your desk. How can you ask her to move?
You want your mom to push you in your car. How can you ask her?
This is John. He is singing and talking loudly. How can you ask him to stop?
Good job practicing asking nicely!
I will try to ask nicely when I ask for things.
